SOFTER COMFORT

Outlast® is a material designed for astronauts' spacesuits. It is made of millions of small spheres of a special type of wax that melts at 97 F / 36 C. The melting process, which starts due to a rise in the body temperature, absorbs the excess heat and accumulates a part of it. When the temperature is stable and under the "melting point", the spheres solidify and releases the energy accumulated in the form of heat.

In a Dual Core Magniflex Mattress the internal foam mattress core is split in two. Simply unzip the Cover, flip half of the core and you will get a softer and firmer side on the same sleeping surface.
